"and in the face of the repeated assertions of George Hearst that he is not a candidate for Senator," etc., etc. This is evasive nay, it is downright dishonesty. For the Democrat knows Hearst is a candidate. It knows its party managers are working for him like beavers. It knows his money i being lavished in all quarters to make his election sure. When did Hearst ever say say it? To whom did he declare it? Will candidate? Will he or the Democrat now say that he does not expect to be elected Senator if a Democratic Legislature i chosen? Will he or the Democrat deny that he is furnishing to the several legis lative districts money to be used to elect Democrats to the Legislature who will vote for him? The Democrat has gone too far in its anxiety to cover Hearst's tracks. It has done more than slop over it has put itself on the rack of inquiry and must answer the questions asked of it, or confess that it has attempted to deceive

THE DIFFERENCE.

There is a lot of side-show orators upon the stump who keep shouting: "There is no difference between the Republican and the Democratic parties; there is no issue between these organizations." To such we would commend the words of Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, uttered on taking the vention of Massachusetts: "The Republican party favors a reformed civil service -the Democratic party opposes it. We are for protection solidly and unitedly; they are against it. We are for honest money and an unblemished credit; they vote and an honest count, and they are against both, and are chiefly sustained by States where neither exists. They have no foreign policy; we believe in a vigorous support of American rights and American interests everywhere and at all

And this is not all. The Republican party believes in lawful reforms; the Democratic party has no condemnation for lawless and revolutionary schemes under the guise of reforms, because it fears the loss of votes. The Republican party believes in the conservation of the public said: "Remember that every Democratschool system; the Democratic party has sent to the Legislature will vote for Geo. What ornaemblazoned—in its coronation of finished work—with the plaudits of the world! What ornaments of speech; what eloquence of human core; what costly gifts of gold, of frankincense and of myrrh of our hearts' tribute can we bring to the celebration of this consummate triumph of genius, of skill, of labor, and which speaks to-day, and will peak forever the thoughts, feelings and friend-hips of these two p pulous, powerful and free epublics, knit together in their pride and joy at heir own established freedom, and in their nope and purpose that the glad light of liberty hall enlighten the world? The genius, courage, levotion of spirit, and indomitable will of the reat sculptor, Bartholdi—whose well-carned ame justified the trust committed to him—have ogether wrought out in stubborn brass and iron his artist's dream, this airy conception of his aind, this shapely sculpture of his cunning and, till here it stands upon its firm base as if he natural playmate of the elements, fearing to harm from all the winds that blow. As with he French people, so with our own, the whole aeans for the great expenditures of this work ave come from the free contributions of the cople themselves; and thus the common cople of both nations may justly point of the history, and progress, and welfare of the human race, than Emperors, lings, or Governments have ever raised. This greater, a nobler monument, of the history, and pro-elfare of the human race, than Emp The crowd in Madison Square, when the Kings, or Governments have ever raised. This statue, on the 4th of July, 1884, in Paris, was de livered to and accepted by our Government, by the authority of the President of the United States, delegated to and executed by Minister Moores.

cheering that must have gladdened the heart of the Alsatian, who bowed and heart of the Alsatian, who bowed and teamers and other craft gathered around the island. This indescribable ovation ntinued for fully half an hour. Senator Evarts then, when the firing and other loises had subsided, introduced Grover Eleveland, President of the United States, who, in accepting the statue, said :

who, in accepting the statue, said:

The people of the United States accept with gratitude from their brethren of the Freuch Republic this grand and completed work of art we here inaugurate. This token of affection and consideration of the people of France demonstrates the kinship of the two republics, and conveys to us the assurance that, in our efforts to commend to mankind the excellence of a Government resting upon the popular will, we still have beyond the American continent a steadfast ally. We are not here to-day to bow before the representation of any fierce efore the representation of any fierce nd warlike god, filled with wrath and venance, but we joyously contemplate our own ity, keeping watch and ward before the open deity, keeping watch and ward before the open gates of America, and one greater than all that have been celebrated in ancient Troy. Instead of grasping in her hands the thunderbolts of terror and of death, she holds aloft that light which illuminates the way to man's enfranchisement. We will not forget that Liberty has here made her home; nor shall her chosen altar be neglected. Willing votaries will constantly keep alive its fires, and these shall gleam upon the shores of our sister republic in the east. Reflected thence, and joined with an wering rays, that stream of light shall pierce the darkness of ignorance and of man's oppression, until "Liberty Enlightens the World."

LAFEVRE'S ADDRESS. After President Cleveland came M. A. afevre, Minister Plenipotentiary of France, who spoke as the representative of the reublic of France. He said : In the presence of so imposing an assembly, and as a prelude to the ceremony which consolidates the secular friendship of two great nations, it is an honor and a hearty pleasure to me oppresent to you, in the name of the French present to you, in the name of the Frence overnment and of the entire French nation the sincere and warm assurance of sympathetic participation in the inauguration of to-day. It is one splendid with solemn and impressive import, for it is one of those which form an epoch in history. This colossal Statue of Liberty, moided by a great artist, would anywhere attract attention: but here, on American soil, it evinces a special significance, symbolizing the existence and development of your nation during more than one hundred years. To us Americans and Frenchmen liberty is not only a common dectrine—it is also a family tie. From an alliance between the two untions sprang forth the most dexilog manifestation of its expansion and radiance through the universe. It will be an eternal honor to France to have seconded the effort of your heroism, and to have understood, in its first dawn, the sublime prospects which were promised to mankind by your generous ardor. This symbol which we inaugurate to-day is not a mere allegorical pledge of fraternal union between the two greavest republices of the world. It is greated simultage each street of the world. 12 sincere and warm assurance of sympathet urate to-day is not a mere allegorical pledge of fraternal-union between the two greatest republics of the world. It is greated simultaneously by more than one hundred millions of freemen, who tender friendly hands to each other across the ceean. Among the thousands of Europeans who are daily conveyed to these hospitable shores, no one will pass before this glorious emblem without immediately perceiving its moral greatness, nor without greating it with respect and thankfulness.

CONCLUDING CEREMONIES There was more music by Gilmore's twenty-second Regiment Band, and then Chauncey M. Depew delivered the com-nemoration address. "Old Hundred" was slayed by the band and the assembly oined in singing the "Doxology." The peremonies were closed with a benediction onounced by Right Rev. Henry C. Pot r, D. D., Assistant Bishop of the dioces New York. A national salute was then d simultaneously by all the batteries in he harbor, affoat and ashore.

The Supreme Court yesterday rendered a decision in the case of Meeker vs. Dalton. The case involved the title to a lot of land in Lodi, which had been sold, with adiacent property, by the plaintiff, to one Geo. Ringer, who in turn deeded it to Dalton. Subsequently Meeker discovered that the lot in controversy was not included, by mistake, in the deed, and commenced suit for its possession. The case was decided in the lower Court in favor of defendant, and an appeal taken. In deciding the appeal the Supreme Court held that the fact that the land in question was intended to be conveyed to defendant, by the deed from the plaintiff, even though by mistake it was not included in the description, establishes his right to the possession, and con stitutes the defense as equitable and as legal title. The judgment of the lower Court was therefore affirmed.

New Things in House Furnishings.

Nothing adds more to House Furnishings than attractive hangings and draperies. The last few years have seen wonderful developments in the making of such materials, and to-day there can be had at little cost goods which formerly were within the reach of but the few.

We aim to keep fully abreast of the latest styles in our stock of Laces, Scrims, Cross-stripes, Portieres, and to-day are able to add a new novelty to the list-Japanese Silk Curtains, in rich yellows and olives, at $12 50, $18 and $20, some of which may be seen in our display window.

New Furniture Coverings, Ramies, Turcomans, Silk Damasks, Petit Points, etc., including in the list of specialties a Ramie at 50 cents a yard, and a 50-inch Spun Silk Furniture Covering at $1 50. Extension Cornices (walnut, gilt and black), to fit any width window, are here again at 75 cents.

Fine Cream Curtains, in tambour applique designs, are admired by many and are different from anything seen hitherto. $10 to $15 per pair.

Rugs also play an important part in household decoration. In addition to Smyrna, Moquette, Velvet and Tapestry Rugs, we have the new Salonica Rugs. In general appearance they resemble the Smyrna rugs, but the colors are brighter and the designs more pronounced. The question of wear can only be solved with time, but we can see no reason why they should not last as long as goods of the same class.

EY TELEGRAPH TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

MILWAUKEE, October 28th.-The Evening Wisconsin's special from Portage, Wisconsin, says: Last night, soon after midnight, the west bound limited express was ditched at the East Rio siding, a small station about thirteen miles east of this city, on car, but it was am possible to get out at that the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee end, for it had telescoped. He rushed back about thirteen miles east of this city, on and St. Paul Railroad. There are two side tracks at the place, and at the time the train was due there last night both were occupied by freights, one by a wild train, and the other by train No. 14, conductor and the place, and the strain was due there last night both were occupied by freights, one by a wild train, and the other by train No. 14, conductor and the place and strain was due to these people, who are being burned to death!" I had been awake but a few minutes before, and had looked at my watch. It was 12:30. I had followed McGinnis in my stockings. He rushed back and cried out, "Come and help me save these people, who are being burned to death!" I had been awake but a few minutes before, and had looked at my watch. It was 12:30. I had followed McGinnis H. P. Hankey, of this city, which had just pulled in from the west to allow the limited express to pass. No. 14 was very long and the conductor was at the head of the said her name was Chever [Sherer], of Witrain, relying upon the brakeman to attend to the switch. One report says the rear to lift the woman from the car, but we brakeman, whose business it was to close the switch after the train, for some reason neglected altogether to do so. The other and more probable story is that he started back to close the switch, but, before he could reach it, the express, which does not stop at any except large places, came tearing down the grade at the rate of fifty miles an hour and left the rails at the open

COULD NOT SEE THE SWITCH LIGHT. The siding is in a cut where the road curves so that the switch light cannot be seen from the east until the train is within a few rods. So the engineer of the limited could not see the switch light turned the wrong way until too late to stop. The engine left the track, ran a short distance and brought up against the side of the cut toppling over. The baggage car and two regular coaches followed, while the four sleepers kept the rails. The engine and cars that went off were badly smashed, and soon took fire from the stoves.

Engineer Little and fireman Egan crawle out from under the locomotive, badly bruised and scalded. The baggageman had a leg broken. All the passengers in the sleepers got out uninjured, except for slight bruises, but in one day coach thirteen per-sons were pinned in and literally burned to death. Many others were injured by the severe shaking up. The whole of the limited express train, excepting one sleeper which they were able to uncouple and draw away, burned up.

General Superintendent Collins was on east-bound passenger train No. 2, which was waiting at a station a few miles this side of the wreck of the limited, and was soon on the scene. A wrecking train, with surgeons, went from this city, and did all that was possible to alleviate suffering and was so demoralized by the accident, the re sponsibility of which rests on his crew, an hus also on him, that he took to the woods in despair, leaving his train. He has always een a most careful and efficient man, and much trusted by the company. A TERRIBLE SCENE.

It was a most horrible and sickening spectacle, the burning people making the night hideous with their screams, while the bystanders were unable to render assist It was the worst wreck ever known in the Northwest.

The passengers from the sleepers ga thered around the blazing cars, but they were powerless to render any assistance.
Men and women could be seen tearing their hair in their agony and frightful screams issued from the death trap. One

NOW READY FOR SETTLEMENT. heavy woman, in particular, tore up one of the seats with almost superhuman strength and endeavored to break her way out of the flaming pyre, but her strength failed her ell to the floor and met a horribl death. Only three persons escaped from the car—a man and two children. The man was observed as he forced his way through the ventilator on top of the car, with all the clothing on his body from the waist downward burned off and his flesh roasted and bleeding from cuts inflicted by broken glass. Every one of the wrecked cars was consumed, with the exception of the last sleeper, which was cut away from the burning wreck. All of the bodies o the victims burned in the wreck-ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

MILWAUKEE, October 28th .- A dispatch to the Evening Wisconsin from Rio, the scene of last night's railroad accident, says: The limited train ran through the oper switch, and plunged into a sandbank. The mail, baggage and day coach were piled on top of it. In the day coach there were twelve or thirteen persons. One man and two children were the only ones saved. The man who escaped had an arm broken, and we otherwise injuried. He is row at and was otherwise injured. He is now at Columbus and is doing well. A MOTHER'S HEROISM.

A woman, whose home is in Winona, handed her two children out of the window, but was herself burned to death in the car. Louis Brinker and Emil Woltersdorf, of Columbus, Wis., are among the dead. The names and residences of the other victims cannot now be ascertained.

The Coroner is holding an inquest on the charred trunks of the bolies, all that is left of the ill-fated travelers. The burning of the baggage obliterates the only clue to the identity of the occupants of the burned car, and it may never be known to a certainty how many perished in the wreck. LATEST PARTICULARS.

MILWAUKEE, October 28th-P. M.-From the most reliable accounts obtained to-night the number who perished does not exceed ten, and these were ail in the pas-senger coach next the baggage car. The only occupants who escaped were two chil dren, whose mother, Mrs. C. R. Scheerer of Winona, handed them out to a brak man. Mrs. Scheerer was pinned down by a seat and already enveloped in flames. One of the rescuers' hands were burned to None of the charred remains can be identified

As far as learned up to to-night, those who perished are: Mrs. Scheerer, of Winona, Minn.; Mrs. Rosin. Johns, of Winona, and her mother-in-law, Louise Marr, of Chicago (her identity, however, is very uncertain); Emil Woltersdorf, residence unknown; five or more unknown persons, and two Sisters of Charity, one of whom is believed to be Mother Alexia, Superioress of the convent at Winona, who was in Milwaukee to establish a new convent. The injured include Conductor Lucius Searle, of Milwaukee, badly hurt about the chest, but probably not fatally; Wade Clark, of Oconomowac, baggageman, leg broken; Charles F. Smith, of Chicago, broken arm and wrist and face cut badly; James Phillips, brakeman, cut badly about the head. No passengers in any of the sleepers were SOME OF THE VICTIMS. bassengers in any of the sleepers were

CONDUCTOR SEARLE'S STORY. Conductor Searle was in the baggage-car when the shock occurred, with baggageman Clark, and Phillips, a brakeman. They were pinned under several heavy trunks, and unable to extricate themselves. To their horror they saw the flames burst is from the end of the car, and they redoubled their efforts, and Phillips managed to crawl out. Conductor Searle, thus released, followed him. Then Clark, with a broken leg, was gotten out, and the three crawled through a window as the flames crawled through a window as the flames had crept up to within two feet of them. Conductor Searle is now lying prostrated at his home in Milwaukee, and tells this story. He says that, as nearly as he can recollect, the occupants of the sar where the frightful incineration occurred included a woman with a little girl of about 6 years; another dark-haired woman with a babe less than a year old; a blonde weman of the l 30, who seemed to be a companion of the former (both bound for St. Paul), and two ile, and thus saved the lives of all the passengers in the sleeper. Then, when the train stopped, he crawled out from beneath his engine bleeding, and alarmed the sleepers of their danger from fire.

A traveling man named Dibble was among the victims. Mrs. L. Lowry, of Milwaukee, also perished. Brinker and Woldersdoff lived at Columbus, in this State, and there boarded the train.

BISHOP WHIPPLE'S STORY.

St. Paul., October 29th.—Bishop Whipple, who was on the ill-fated train, says: I was in the first sleeper, and had a berth in the end next the day coach. Mr. McGinnis, of Morris, was in the berth opposite me. The instant of the shock he sprang from his berth and ran to the front end of the car, but it was impossible to get out at that end, for it had telescoped. Herushed back and cried out, "Come and help me save these people, who are being burned to death!" I had been awake but a few minutes before, and had looked at my watch. It was larged to the state of the shock and cried out, "Watch. It was larged to the state of the shock and cried out, "Watch. It was larged to the state of the shock and cried out, "Watch. A moment after we reached her her dress took fire and she fainted and was burned to death before our eyes, There was comparatively little screaming coming from the car, but there was rather a low moan of suffering, and I believe that most of those who perished were killed outright.

The car was telescoped at both ends. Mr.

Ames, who was on the train, saw the pasers in that coach, and so did my wife, and they think there were seventeen.

TRANSPORTATION and Markets.

Cheap and rapid transportation is of the transportance to those who are both producers and consumers. It cheapens all that he buys and enhances the price of all he produces. The "LANGFORD COLONY" is most advantage ously situated in this respect. It is between two railroads that both connect with steamboats that run from the Sacramento and San Joaquin points to the Golden Gate. This gives the cheapest freight and passenger rates for the distance on this Coast. The markets for all kinds of products are good. The Canneries, Wineries and Fruit Dealers take all the Fruit raised, at highly remunerative prices. There is an unlimited demand for all the Wine, Raisins, Figs, Prunes, Green, Dried and Canned Fruits that can be
